

I feel that the banking community is trying to undermine the rights of individuals in the state of Indiana, and are using the FCC and the federal government as their vechicle. We have made the choice to keep businesses off our phones. The federal government should respect this choice of the people and should deny the requests of the special interest groups such as the banking community.